

Diane Conway asks "What Would You Do for Love if You Had No Fear?"

By TOBY REITER

What would you do for love if you didn't have anything holding you back? For anyone who loves a heart-warming, romantic tale or is still learning the ways of love, Diane Conway delivers in this engaging collection of stories. The author approaches and interviews ordinary men and women she meets on the street about the crazy things they have done for love in the face of fear – fear of rejection, fear of commitment, fear of being alone. The result is a compilation of humorous, touching and intimate anecdotes, as well as candid and frank confessions of how fear and lack of communication can stand in the way of finding true, lasting love. With straightforward tips and strategies, as well as "love challenges," Conway inspires us all to leave our comfort zones behind, confront our fears and pursue the loving relationships we crave with an open heart!
